Global Stewardship Program
Faculty Development Seminar Application: “Contemporary Cuba”

Name: ____________________________________________

Department: ____________________________________________

Campus phone: __________________________ Email: __________

- Spoken languages: __________________________
- Research Interests: __________________________

- Have you traveled to the proposed country before? YES ___ NO ___
- Have you traveled within the greater region before? YES ___ NO ___
  If so, briefly describe where, for how long, and general purpose? __________________________

- The on-campus portion of the seminar will meet from November through May (usually once a month or so). As a participant you will be asked to contribute to our monthly discussions of an interdisciplinary reading list, attend occasional guest lectures, and participate in a pre-departure orientation. The monthly seminar meetings will typically be held in late afternoons or evenings.

  Is there any reason why you would not be able to attend the on-campus portion of the seminar? YES ___ NO ___
  If so, explain __________________________________________

- The site visit to Cuba has been tentatively scheduled for June 11th - 19th.

  Will you be available during these dates? YES ___ NO ___
- If you are unable to participate in the site visit portion this summer, would you still like to attend the on-campus seminar? YES ___ NO ___

- Along with this cover sheet, submit a two-page statement of purpose describing your teaching and research interests. Describe your objectives by outlining how you expect to benefit professionally from participation in the seminar. Send application and two-page statement by October 14th to Jeff Barnett, Director of Global Stewardship, Center for International Education.